

TOUGH ECONOMIC TIMES CALLS FOR NEW SOLUTIONS

Aid your company with our Labor Force Recovery Plan

In very uncertain economic times, having the flexibility with your workforce on a project by project basis is very important from both a productivity standpoint and a loyalty standpoint. Our Labor Force Recovery Program allows companies to bring back loyal and trained laid off workers through Extra Help, Inc. instead of bringing in new temporary workers with no company experience.

This may allow cost savings if the laid off workers would have had to receive benefits when brought back through the company. If brought back through Extra Help, Inc., you can delay the provision of benefits until they transition back to your payroll. Once your company becomes more comfortable with economic conditions, and you are ready to start bringing these workers back on a full time basis, Extra Help, Inc. will not charge any conversion fees for taking the worker off or our payroll, even if it was for only one day.

This can be a great option for you company even if you have not considered using a temporary staffing company in the past. There may also be cost savings (however small) from a direct cost standpoint...this could be as simple as freeing up the employee who had to manage the payroll, and other employee associated tasks, to work in other areas of the company since Extra Help, Inc. will handle all employee payroll issues.
